NEWS FEATURE AND ROTOGRAPHIC SECTIONS.

In the News Feature Section today Justice Wesley O. Howard has written a stirring article on the American Legion, setting forth in unmistakable terms the nation's debt to the men who fought for us in the great war. "Wake up. merica!" is his message, "you are already forgetting your veteran heroes. Other articles of interest include Benjamin De Casseres' amusing exposition of the abomination of a closed "lid," a story on the high cost of diamonds and a true adventure tale of a gorilla hunt in the Congo. The section contains also news of society, art, music and drama and book reviews.

The Rotographic Section contains photographs of Italy's new possesions in cld Dalmatia, pictures from the Census Bureau, a snap of Rear Admiral Henry A. Wiley, of the Pacific Fleet, and of the officers attending the Destroyer Staff College at San Diego, Cal. "Fashion's Spot-Light" shows the new spring modes.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING MARKETS.

You May Delay By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER.

"Tempora mutantur et nos cum illis"-time changes and we change with it.

"There was a time when advertising in general was tabooed," said Frank E. Campbell, founder proprietor of The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street. "A professional man considered it below his dignity to inform the public of what he knew. Banks considered it unethical to ask for trade and business.

"Then merchants began to advertise their wares. For many years 'display' advertisements were refused by newspapers and magazines. 'Cuts' and 'illustrations' could not be used.

"Again time changed and we changed with it. "Banks and Bankers now advertise, for they consider that theirs is a business like any other, handling two and only two commodities-the same as every other well conducted business-material and service.

"On the morrow I will make my will," is the headline of an advertisement of The Bankers Trust Co. "This man procrastinated," is another.

"Defeated by Death" is the title of an advertisement of The American Exchange National Bank.

"The purpose of this publicity is to induce men and women to appoint the respective Bank as Executor of

"It would be interesting to know how many of the officials of these Banks have done what they ask you to do; have made their will.

"It would be more interesting to know how far they have prepared for the last journey from which there is no return. If they have made a will, have they purchased a plot, a place where to lie? Have they provided for the casket wherein their earthly remains will rest? Have they done this or do they leave the selection of the casket and the arrangement of the funeral to the prostrated woman who in the time of greatest grief does not know what to do nor how to do it?

"You may delay, but time will not," said Benjamin

"Have you done your duty?"
